

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF MINNESOTA

David Laurence Hodges,

Case No. 20-cv-0090 (WMW/KMM)

Plaintiff,

ORDER

v.

State of Minnesota Department of Corrections et al.,

Defendants.

Before the Court is Plaintiff David Laurence Hodges's application to proceed in forma pauperis on appeal (IFP application). (Dkt. 190.) Although the Court believes that its September 22, 2021 Order was correct, Hodges's current appeal is not "frivolous." See Neitzke v. Williams, 490 U.S. 319, 325 (1989) (stating that an appeal "is frivolous where it lacks an arguable basis either in law or in fact"). And neither a statute nor other circumstance prevents Hodges from continuing to proceed IFP. Therefore, the Court grants Hodges's IFP application, subject to Hodges's payment of an initial partial filing fee of $178.42 for the reasons addressed below.

Because Hodges is a prisoner, his IFP application must comply with the requirements of the Prison Litigation Reform Act (PLRA), which provides, in relevant part:

(1) Notwithstanding subsection (a), if a prisoner brings a civil action or files an appeal in forma pauperis, the prisoner shall be required to pay the full amount of a filing fee. The court shall assess and, when funds exist, collect, as a partial payment of any court fees required by law, an initial partial filing fee of 20 percent of the greater of —

(A) the average monthly deposits to the prisoner's account; or

(B) the average monthly balance in the prisoner's account for the 6-month period immediately preceding the filing of the complaint or notice of appeal.

(2) After payment of the initial partial filing fee, the prisoner shall be required to make monthly payments of 20 percent of the preceding month's income credited to the prisoner's account. The agency having custody of the prisoner shall forward payments from the prisoner's account to the clerk of the court each time the amount in the account exceeds $10 until the filing fees are paid.

(3) In no event shall the filing fee collected exceed the amount of fees permitted by statute for the commencement of a civil action or an appeal of a civil action

(4) In no event shall a prisoner be prohibited from bringing a civil action or appealing a civil or criminal judgment for the reason that the prisoner has no assets and no means by which to pay the initial partial filing fee.

28 U.S.C. § 1915(b).

Under this statute, a prisoner who is granted IFP status on appeal is not excused from paying the appellate filing fee altogether. Instead, a prisoner who is granted IFP status may pay the appellate filing fee in installments rather than paying the entire amount in advance. See Henderson v. Norris, 129 F.3d 481, 484–85 (8th Cir. 1997); cf. Ashley v. Dilworth, 147 F.3d 715, 716 (8th Cir. 1998) (“The purpose of the [PLRA] was to require all prisoner-litigants to pay filing fees in full, with the only issue being whether the inmate pays the entire filing fee at the initiation of the proceeding or in installments over a period of time.”). Section 1915(b)(1) requires prisoner IFP applicants to pay an initial partial filing fee at the outset of the appeal, and Section 1915(b)(2) requires payment of the balance in installments through regular deductions from the prisoner's trust account.

The "Certificate" section of Hodges's IFP application provides information derived from his inmate trust account, as required by Section 1915(a)(2). The amount of Hodges's average monthly deposits during the preceding six-month period was $892.10, while his average monthly balance during the same period was $117.98. Because the average monthly deposit amount exceeds the average monthly balance, Hodges's initial partial filing fee for his appeal is 20 percent of the average monthly deposits, or $178.42. See 28 U.S.C. § 1915(b)(1). This initial partial filing fee is due immediately. If Hodges elects to pursue his appeal, the balance of the $505 appellate filing fee must be paid in installments, and prison officials will be authorized to deduct funds from Jackson's trust account. See 28 U.S.C. § 1915(b)(2).
